The past is buried and must not be resurrected, but there is one who silenced, the one whose name you tried to tell your brother name you fried to tell your brother yesterday. I knew—I guessed—but I must have your assurance that I am right. The man you fear, the man who can bring ruin and worse upon you all—is this he?"

Benaing more closely over the prostrate form he breathed a name. There was a pregnant pause while Roger Drake's eye seemed to dilate. Then unwayeringly, in-Then, unwaveringly, inexorably, the lids closed.

CHAPTER XVII. Man, but I've news for you! Scottie exclaimed when Miles came down stairs. "Dick Kemp has found what's been under our very noses. Do you mind when Rip told is of meeting two men in the gar-len? Last night they came again and Dick frightened them away but not before he's discovered the spot they were after. We'll beat them to it tonight but how we're to get rid of the lad--!"

"I'll find a way," Miles responded briefly. "It's only the last link in the chain, anyway, but it will be best for him and his litle bride to be far from this house later to When young Dick meets you tell him to pack his grip and wait with his runabout in the back road till Patricia joins him."

Miles was passing through the hall when Andrew Drake emerged from the libyary fuming with exasperation.

"Confound that pettyfogging Wells!" he explained to Miss Drake. "He's coming down on the ten o'clock train tonight and in sists that I meet him at the sta-tion.—Wants a private talk." "Sh-h!" Miss Drake warned and vanished up the stairs, Andrew grumblingly following. As Miles turned Patricia appeared in the door of the music room.

"I heard!" she whispered. "Oh, ergeant, why is Mr. Wells coming and where have you been all day? When is all this dreadful suspense going to end?"
"Tonight, for you, my dear young lady," the detective replied. "I want you to go away again now to-night. Mr. Kemp will be waiting for you on the back road in his car in an hour and you must take your traveling case and slip out and join him. He will keep in touch with me and when you come back in a few days it will be to find that all the trouble has passed."

She held both ber hands out to him impulsively.

"Oh? I have always had faith in you even when I was living a nightmare. You have found the terrible old woman who treed to have me abducted and the tm." with the tatooed arm?"

"He will never cross your path again," Miles replied evasively. "One thing more; not only was your own sanity never in question, but that of your people also."

It was midnight when Miles and Scottle, equipped with shovels, set Scottle, equipped with shovels, set to work with a will and soon had a

Clad He Picked This Stomach Remedy

Puts Stomach in Fine Condition

—Ends Dizzy Spells, Nervous
ness; Headaches and Makes You Sleep Well

Injudicious eating causes acute indigestion, gas, acidity, heaviness and sour stomach—sometimes the distended stomach causes the dreadful feeling of near sufformations.

dreadful feeling of near suffocation.

Isn't it worth something to know of a remedy that will stop this distress, in a few minutes—quicker than anything else you can think of.

This is no common stomach remedy for it took years of time to combine Pepsin with the other effective agents that make Dare's Mentha-Pepsin so good that the Wost cases of indigestion and restricts and other chronic stomach allments are speedily overcome and the most badly deranged stomachs; are made clean, strong and healthy.

Mr. Calvin Dilks, of Alloway, N. J., a man of few words, knows this for he writes: "I entirely rid myself of an old catarrhal condition of the stomach with Dare's Mentha-Pepsin."

As matter what your stomach trouble is get a large bottle for $1.00 today, at Fortney Drug Co. or any druggist anywhore, with the distinct understanding that if, it doesn't do you the world of speed your money, will be returned.

Hobart attired in a robe and slippers appeared in the doorway.

"Grayle, you here?"

"Hello, Grayle?" Andrew's voice sounded from behind his brother.

"William told me you wanted me.

What's up now?"

"I do want you, Andrew, and
"No, you don't!" Andrew leaped for him. "Can't you see it's a plant?
